ENGEL ENGEL GALAXY work trousers with stretch are specifically designed for the female form, making them a good fit for women at work. The stretch material allows you to move freely in all work situations, with the trousers following your movements. The ENGEL GALAXY work trousers are also made with a concealed front button, ensuring that the components you are working with do not get accidentally scratched or scuffed by your workwear. With functional details such as practical pockets and ergonomic knee sections, they make your working day effective and comfortable. The durable material of these trousers is reinforced with triple-stitched seams and CORDURA® in areas subject to extra wear. Reflective details enhance visibility, when it is required.
